

Developing a mastery approach in English : planning for the year ahead

Thursday 15th June 2017, 9.30am – 3.45pm

“An excellent day. Very useful and a super insight into depth and mastery curriculum. Lots of practical ideas and knowledge to apply back in the classroom,” Assistant Headteacher.

The word ‘understanding’ occurs 48 times in the National Curriculum for KS1 and KS2 English, the word ‘secure’ 5 times and ‘accurately’ 22 times. Integral to mastery is the development of deep, rather than superficial conceptual understanding and in secure learning which persists. Mastery learning is centred on the belief that all, or almost all, children can achieve the standards.

What does a mastery approach look like in English? What are the features of lessons? What constitutes depth and breadth? How do pupils move from a shaky understanding of concepts to efficient and effective application in a range of contexts? How do we ensure our approach enables children to meet the increased cognitive demands of Key Stage assessments and enable all our learners to achieve the standards? How do we assess the security and depth of understanding to ensure progress is maximised? How do we ensure pupils are challenged?

“This course digs deep into the philosophy of teaching English and seeks to ensure that teachers can turn theory into day-to-day practice. It asks challenging questions, aids reflection and provides practical ways forward. It examines how pupils make progress and considers the interlinking nature of reading, writing, speaking and listening.”

Vicky Crane, Consultant & trainer

A set of electronic resources complement this course to enable colleagues to share developments within school.

- What is a mastery approach to learning in English? What are the implications for teachers and pupils? What does it look like on a day-to-day basis?
- Planning and teaching for understanding.
- What is depth in English? How do we ensure our more-able pupils are challenged? How do we support all our learners to achieve the standards?
- What does intelligent practice look like and how can we develop different types of fluency, including how automaticity relates to working memory?
- How does the quality of thinking have a direct impact on the quality of writing, reading comprehension and the development of speaking and listening?

This course is aimed at senior leaders and literacy leaders

Evaluations from previous mastery training:

“Fabulous resources, good themes for group discussions, lots of opportunities to share ideas and a variety of learning tools. A thorough and clear training day.”

“Plenty of examples, practical application & opportunities to talk through ideas and experiences.”

“I now have a secure understanding of mastery learning. Thank you Vicky for all your support and resources.”
