

Years 5 & 6: teaching writing

This course runs throughout the academic year and includes three face-to-face days.

This is a unique opportunity to study in-depth the most effective ways of teaching writing. Working together throughout the year provides teachers with a different experience to a single day course. Participants can track the impact of their practice as the course progresses and bring their questions and observations to the next session. Through a rich blend of face-to-face training, peer coaching, individual support and an online learning platform, teachers feel supported in reflecting on and developing their practice.

Teaching writing is demanding; a pursuit worthy of continual professional development. This course weaves together complex concepts, technical aspects and creativity in a way that increases teachers' knowledge and provides them with a practical way forward. It responds to typical issues Year 5 and 6 teachers tell us they experience and ensures evidence-based approaches are turned into practical classroom actions.

"Fantastic trainer – very inspirational and knowledgeable"; "Excellent variety of resources and ideas that I can't wait to try out in school."; "Lots of practical ideas. Great illustrations of how to really embed learning."; "Fabulous resources, good themes for group discussions, lots of opportunities to share ideas and a variety of learning tools."

Course coverage:

- understanding progression and the writing demands of Year 5 and Year 6;
- unpicking the standards and understanding assessment;
- sequencing lessons and planning for progress - long-term, medium-term and short-term planning;
- teaching specific genres, e.g. newspaper writing, stories, recounts, balanced arguments, letters, diary entries;
- tackling common pupil problems;
- monster grammar session - improving your own knowledge and exploring how to teach grammar effectively;
- exploring sentence level work in both fiction and non-fiction writing;
- addressing common barriers and the difficulties pupils experience when writing, including consideration for what stops pupils from achieving the expected standard;
- getting pupils to greater depth;

Teachers gain access to an extensive online learning platform that provides them with a wealth of reference materials and classroom resources.
